SWEET ALMA HOME

Dr. Josephson

"Our swift wing'd memories—
In yearnings, yearnings,
Backward flies to thee."

How true are these words, our minds will often wander back to Heidelberg and the experiences we had while attending there, our happy moments, our sad moments, the people we met, and of these surely one such remembered person will be our friend, our helper, our leader, our guide, and our president, "Doc Jo."

Distinguished and impressive—yes. Remember our first convocation chapel—there he was—cap, gown, and all the trimmings. That's where we first met him.

Friendly and cheerful—yes. Whenever we would meet him on the street, an "Hello" always greeted us.

Generous—yes. His car was always filled to the brim with us Heidelbergers going to a "Y" conference, or to a debate, or to present a play or sing a concert.

Sense of humor—yes. One cold wintry morning something new had been added to the lawn of "Doc Jo's" home. There were Mr. and Mrs. Snow with Bobby and Astrid grinning at us as we went on to classes.

A worker—yes. Remember how often we used to see his office light on long after the sun had set? Remember seeing him with that ever ready suitcase for one of those frequent business trips?

Then it came time for him to hand us our degree. One of the most long awaited and happiest times of our lives. We were glad it was "Doc Jo" who had shared in our happiness and, ah yes, we will remember you, "Doc Jo."

Crew-capped Hesperians returned way last autumn only to find their hall appropriated right out from under them by the soldiers. So one fall afternoon the Hesses took to the great out-of-doors and hiked to the quarry for a corn and potato roast. Not even rain could dampen their high spirits as they closed the festivities with a campfire sing.

In December they rolled snowflakes from all over the campus into one huge snowball and pushed it into the Commons for a gay evening of fun and frolic.

January found the shivering Hesses on their way to the "Y" pool for a rousing splash party and, afterwards, exclusive "eats" at Chaney's.

Between semesters the Hesses slept off exams at the Gibson Gals' slumber party.

The Hesses shot their way to victory in the highly contested inter-city championship basketball game.

Pledging was preceded by their get-acquainted tea for all freshman girls held in France Hall living room. The color scheme of green and white was carried out in the refreshments.

Early spring found the pledges with their pails and mops whistling while scrubbing their way through initiation.

The annual Phi Doe at the Hopples' estate was held soon after we returned to the campus last fall. There was a very wonderful picnic supper, and an informal meeting afterwards, with singing around an open fire.

Later the Phi's sponsored an open house at the Commons, which proved to be very successful in acquainting the Army boys with the Heidelberg Coeds.

Many hectic evenings were spent in the Home Ec House finishing the new drapes for the Lit Hall in time for the Phi Chaw. This affair, although not held in recent years, is a traditional gathering for the women of all the societies. There was an evening of cards with a program of musical selections and skits by various groups within the society.

Just before pledging we gave a tea in the Lit Hall for the Freshmen. To wind up Hell Week we entertained the weary pledges at Chaney's for dinner.

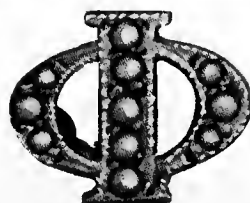

Right after Easter the new society members were formally initiated, and began to take part in our activities.

Late in the Spring the Seniors were honored by a banquet downtown.

In September, the annual "Highland Fling" at Hedges-Boyer Park set the tempo for social activities of the year. A "Royal Reunion" in the Lit Hall, was a pleasant stimulus after exams.

Captain Mary Shumaker, later captain of the All-Star Team, led her "fighting-six" through a season of Intramural Basketball.

"Holiday Hop" celebrated Lincoln's and Washington's Birthday, greeting new AST students, coeds, and faculty at the Commons' "Holiday Inn." Black-faced gals harmonized on "Abraham." Brocade-satin colonial gallants and their ladies danced the minuet. "Mary Liz" and "Bartie" waltzed out of a romantic valentine. Ruth Alice and "Willie" wowed the audience with a comic impersonation.

After Hell Week, the pledges were welcomed at a Palm Sunday Breakfast held at the Shawhan Hotel. Formal initiation with violets and rings, and a farewell tea in honor of the Senior Eugs climaxed the year.

The Ap's opened their activities for the year with the Pledge Banquet in October at which five new members were welcomed into the society. Although the membership has decreased from that of former years, the same enthusiasm prevailed, as messages were read from members now in the service. Speeches were given and a charter member told of the founding of the society, recalling various interesting highlights that occurred in the early years.

Shortly after Thanksgiving, the boys were happy to open the hall for dancing three nights each week. In February facilities were improved when a public address system was installed. This addition increased the attendance, as evidenced by the large crowd that filled the hall each evening.

During the year most members of the society in the armed forces found time to return to the campus to visit during brief furloughs. As the year draws to a close the Aptonaltons look forward to the time when normal activities can again be resumed.

Excelsior

Rogge, DiSanto, Lee.

The spirit of Excelsior is still present on the Heidelberg campus although their membership has decreased from fifty-four last year to three this year. Most of the boys of red and green are fighting on the battlefield instead of on the gridiron this season.

The traditional Ex Topper, Ex Stag and Ex Banquet have been postponed for the duration.

Shortly after the fall semester started, the Exes were asked by the Army to give up their hall to be used as an Engineering drawing room. The boys were good sports about it, and in no time at all the Ex Ante room assumed the name of the Excelsior Hall. They carry on with their regular meetings and the keys still rattle in the lock—there are furloughs even if this is War.

The familiar red and green jackets are missed this year, along with the serenades of "Excelsior, We Sing to Thee," and those memories shall never be forgotten.

Never a group to let a bad situation dampen its enthusiasm, the Heidelberg Literary Society made use of all opportunities to function as an active campus organization.

In October came the pledging of new members. There was enough game free of Uncle Sam's clutches to account for at least one sleepless night and the annual duties of "Big Bertha."

Fast becoming acquainted with ourselves and seeking larger fellowship, the Heids in cooperation with the Aps held an open house in both halls.

Then came the serenades after the Christmas Dance, honoring the Heidelberg women.

The Heids behind the 8-Ball on January 8 nevertheless scored a well-attended open house dance at the Commons.

Spring came and we tended to become more individualistic, each turning his own fancy to thoughts in a lighter vein.

The Annual Spring Banquet was a cooperative affair carried out by Heids, Exes, and Aps. It was a fine exhibition of the ends capable of accomplishment through forgetting society boundaries.

With the help of the Army Unit, Concert Choir was able to give once more the "Messiah" which was performed this year with Angela Mass as student soloist, and Esther Willoughby, an Alumna. The male soloists were Mr. Clarence Ball, an alumnus and tenor from Toledo, and Eugene Casselman, bass, of Fort Wayne, Indiana. In the middle of January, Uncle Sam changed the Concert Choir into the "The Girls Concert Choir."

A home concert at Trinity church started the girls on a series of trips which were necessarily short because of transportation difficulties, you know. Sandwiched in between was a performance at the Educational Conference in March.

Members of the Concert Choir are chosen on a competitive basis by the conductor Professor Ebersole.

Tours to Toledo and Fostoria gave an appreciative audience a chance to see that Heidelberg's traditional Concert Choir was capably carried on by the bachelor women.

Heidelberg students, who do not belong to the Concert Choir, but who like to sing and wish to belong to a vocal organization, may join the College Choir. Under the direction of Professor Ebersole, this group assembles every Monday afternoon. This year, with the manpower shortage both on campus and off, it was necessary to convert the group into a woman's choir.

At the beginning of the year, before the Concert Choir was organized, this choir was especially active. It furnished the music for a number of Chapel programs. The main event of the year for the College Choir came, however, when they, together with the Concert Choir, presented music for the Christmas Vespers.

Note of warning: Go to dinner at about a quarter til six on Monday evening, if you do not wish to be trampled under the thundering hoofs of the All-College Choristers, rushing for their evening meal.

No football games! No band? Oh, of course there was a band this year, in spite of the elimination of the games, at which it was always present—rain or shine—cheering the Student Princes on to victory. There was, however, a necessity for changing the setup to a certain extent, and it became a concert rather than a marching band.

The band organized and began its year with a fine personnel and lots of spirit. Due to military conditions the male constituents were greatly reduced, so the vacancies were filled by supplementing with a few men from the A.S.T.P. Unit. They did a fine job, but began to drop out as the program for the unit was changed and many were transferred elsewhere. Their loss was keenly felt, and in March it became necessary for the remaining members to merge with the orchestra in finishing its program for the year.

Sole organization on campus strictly for music students is the Triad Club. To be eligible for membership, a student must carry at least four semester hours of music. The first meeting this year was a weiner roast behind the Conservatory, where the members got together for fun, and incidentally, to discuss the happenings of the past vacation.

The annual Christmas tea was held at the Conservatory on Saturday afternoon, December 18. The whole building took on a gay holiday atmosphere. Even the stairway and bulletin board were decorated. Candles replaced electric lights, and there was a fireplace with stockings hung by it. The musical program was presented by members of the senior class. Following the program, tea was served.

Freshmen were initiated into the club in March, to fill the places of the seniors about to graduate. Here it was the duty of newcomers to entertain the old Triad members.

Although considerably smaller in size this year, the Y.W. and Y.M.C.A., through close cooperation, were very active organizations. Beginning with the annual "Y" retreat at Camp Pittenger, the Y's planned the activities of Freshman Week—the mixer, formal reception, and big and little sister tea—weekly vespers, chapel programs, open houses, pop-in-night, discussion groups, heart sister week, and after-dinner recreation for the Army Unit. Freshman women worked with the Y.W. through the Freshman Commission.

The W.S.S.F. received excellent cooperation in its drives for money and books for prisoners of war, and in the Huping sacrifice meals. Classes and activities at the Community House were continued this year, including a Girl Scout troop and Sunday School class. Outstanding speaker of the monthly meetings of the Y was Dr. Sherwood Eddy, noted Christian leader.

Delegates from the Y's were sent to the World Acquaintance Tour in Cleveland.

This year, as always, an integral part of the YWCA was the Freshman Commission. Early in the fall Betty Van Horn took over her duties as president with Aurelia Beisheim acting as treasurer and Marianna Nugent as secretary. The group was guided by four upperclass Y members.

The meetings which were bi-monthly, included different speakers and programs of all sorts. Ruth Blackburn acted as program chairman, while Ruth Withrow was the social chairman. "Freshman Frolic," a party at the Home Ec House for the members, started the social activities.

The group took over a number of projects of service to the school and Y. These included care of the service flag, the sale of candy and Heide!berg stickers, and the saving of sales tax stamps. The Community House, also a Y project, found interested girls in the Commission.

June Frank and Paul Kiewit, at the head of the Student Council, guided the student government body through the year's work.

Their first activity was the organization of a recreational program for the A.S.T.P. men, whereby the men could become acquainted with our students in their free time.

The big event of the fall season was a Homecoming Football Game between the soldiers of the North and South from our Army Unit. After the game a variety show of Heidelberg talent was produced in Rickley Chapel, with the Annual Homecoming Dance as a grand climax for the day.

The student Princes and soldiers helped carry on the tradition of our gala Christmas formal.

Yes, the Student Council is doing its bit to win the war too. They supervise the sale of war stamps once a week to our student body.

Thus, our Student Council closes its docket for another year, brushes the academic dust from its shoulder, and leaves its benches of grim toil.

Being particularly interested in Interior Decorating this year, the club visited several new and remodeled homes to learn more about the problems of building and interior decorating.

Several teas were given during the year, one being the traditional tea given by Miss Boehr at her home.

"Godies Ladies," a book review by Mrs. Albert Hayden; the Christmas party which took the place of the annual formal dance; speeches on occupations in food and clothing; and a demonstration on meats by a representative from the Swift Co. were some of the outstanding events of the year which was climaxed by the annual Style Show.

The club has done its part towards the war effort by cooperating with the O.P.A., conducting several surveys for them during the course of the year.

Several members attended the annual District Meeting which was held in Columbus.

Officers for the year were Mary Jane Chapman, president; Betty Vitz, vice president; Evalynn Haulman, secretary, and Edith Pitts, treasurer.

A new experience was on hand for the editors of the Kilikilik this year, as Paul Bock and Kay Auck, discovered. Heidelberg's ASTP Unit not only furnished the staff with a different and colorful variety of news, but contributed a military page to the make-up of the Kil—Pvt. Bob Klemfuss, military editor.

The first semester Paul managed to get the new Kil charter passed, which provides for faculty-student election of editor and business manager. Under this new setup Kay Auck was elected editor and Ruth Atwater business manager for the second semester.

Editor Kay, with red boots and head scarf, took the traditional Friday afternoon train ride to Bloomville where, amid the smell of printer's ink and noise of linotype machines, the Kil goes to press. Marian Symanski, society editor, Helen Kappauf, copy editor, and Curly Wynn, served as Kay's right-hand men during publication.

Any Thursday night would find Kay and Curly busily writing headlines before the last copy was put in the mail.

This musical Aurora has overheard many a tune this year. Our editor, Doris Wilson, answered in regard to the question of the time appointed for work, "Sunday, Monday, or Always." As business manager, Adda Jane's thankful tune was "Pennies from Heaven." When the cover complications set in, groans on all sides were heard—"It Can't Be Wrong." However, Willie's work was done with the help of a competent staff, and Adda Jane, with three faithful helpers, came out with an account to her credit.

"Stormy Weather" held up Miss Kalbileisch and the photography staff for quite a few days, but finally the staff could "Make Hay While the Sun Shone" without "Singing in the Rain."

Any "Silver Threads Among the Gold," viewed on heads of the coeds might quite safely be attributed to this edition with its war time restrictions. However, this book is "One of the Things I Love" and the staff is proud to present it to you. We all hope you enjoy it and want to say to us, "Thanks for the Memories."

The performances of newly inducted members constituted the initiation meetings at the beginning of each semester for the Wig and Masque Club. Mrs. Dorothy Goerlich served as faculty advisor, Elizabeth Hoffman as president, Libuse Lacina as secretary, and Doris Wilson as treasurer.

"Madness in Triple Time," a one act play presented by a few members of the group, entertained the audience between intervals of darkness, during which the cast and the responsive audience waited patiently for a period of forty minutes while defective lighting was repaired.

Student direction of plays helped to acquaint the members with all phases of play production.

Attention was primarily directed to dramatic interests although the club endeavored to offer other diversions, such as card parties for the members.

An annual picnic climaxed the club's activities for the year.

Debate was the main interest of the Ohio Beta chapter of Pi Kappa Delta this year. The women's team tied with two other schools for first place in the Ohio Women's Intercollegiate Debate Conference, at Capital University in Columbia. An inscribed gold trophy came to Heidelberg in May, after having been shared with the other winners. The men's team tied for third place honors in a similar tournament held later.

Members of Pi Kappa Delta participated in the Great Lakes Provincial Tournament held at Baldwin Wallace College in Berea. The representatives entered men's and women's divisions in debate, extempore and oratory.

Six new members were qualified to join the organization by competing in intercollegiate debates and were accepted into the fraternity.

Dr. Lemke served as faculty advisor in the absence of Professor Hopkins, former debate coach. June Frank was president and Jean Young secretary-treasurer.

The Alpha Psi Chapter of Kappa Delta Pi, national honorary education society, seeks to develop in its members high scholarship and professional achievements.

Highlight of the societies activities this year was the banquet at the Shawhan Hotel in honor of the national executive officers of Kappa Delta Pi. The speaker was Dean McCracken, national president of Kappa Delta Pi.

On March 11, formal initiation for four new members was held at the home of Dr. E.I.F. Williams, counselor of the local chapter and recorder-treasurer of the national organization.

The Education Club organized this year and cooperated with Kappa Delta Pi to sponsor the annual Educational Conference on March 18. Dr. J. C. Morrison, Walton B. Bliss, and J. B. Edmonson spoke on the theme "Education Looks Ahead."

Mr. Paul Brown, Superintendent of Tiffin Public Schools, spoke at the March meeting of the Education Club.

The picnic at Hedges-Boyer Park concluded the activities of the year.

"History repeats itself!" This was another successful year for Heidelberg's History Club. Nineteen forty-four marks the sixteenth anniversary since the club was founded on our campus. In that time it has become an outstanding activity for students interested in history. The main purpose of the club is to create a more active interest in past history in relation to modern life.

Officers elected at the first meeting were Elizabeth Hoffman, president; Enid Oldfather, vice-president; Jean Hartsel, secretary; Jerry Koontz, treasurer; Mary Jane Chapman, historian; and Dominic DiSanto, reporter. A wide variety of programs was given this year—students participated in a well-rounded view of Lincoln's rise to the presidency, faculty members discussed life in India in its most interesting phases, Mr. A. G. McQuate and Mr. Paul Ebel from town were among the outside speakers. Professor Martin Walker Smith is the very able advisor of the club, and often adds stories of interest to the meetings.

Thus was history made and another year brought to a close.

"El Circulo Espanol" had another very enjoyable year, finding entertainment in their monthly meetings. At the first meeting of the year, Helen Kappauf, President, presided, with Florence Cartlidge Vice-President, Betty Jane Miller Treasurer, and Ruth Alice Miller Secretary. At this assembly Mexican pictures were displayed, Spanish games and contests were played, and Mexican refreshments were served.

The annual Christmas party was truly successful. Miss Osterholm gave a very interesting talk on Spanish Christmas customs and the Hacimiento. The game of pinata was played, and all received presents.

The February banquet took the theme of South American countries. Dolls and maps from each country were exhibited, authentic figures from Mexico decorating each place. Spanish songs and dances furnished the evening's entertainment.

The April meeting was centered around Pan-American Day. The year was happily ended with a May picnic.

Students pursuing the field of Classics assembled at the home of Dr. Kramer in October to make plans for a year of activity in the ancient manner. November found them garbed in flowing robes and banqueting in the Roman style, after which the new officers for the year were elected. As the spotlight was once again focused on Italy, many historic places have become significant, so the topic for discussion in December was "What the American Soldiers Are Seeing in Italy." Miss Mildred Burman acted as hostess to the group in February, when Dr. Lemke gave a talk on "Orestes and Hamlet." To carry out the Greek tradition, as well as the Roman, another banquet was held at the Gibson Hotel emphasizing the Grecian customs. After exploring the topics of "Semantics" and "The Federative Idea in the Ancient World," a very successful and interesting year was brought to a close.

The Senior Honor Society has at its object the recognition and promotion of scholarship. The Phi Beta Kappa members of the faculty, the Dean of the College, and the students elected constitute the membership of the society. The students elected must be seniors and have a minimum point average for all grades of 2.4. There has been at least one business meeting each semester with a program devoted to intellectual subjects.

The annual Senior Honor Society banquet for initiating new members was held on December Second at the Home Economics House. The affair was neither too stuffily intellectual, nor yet did it smack of too much frivolity. New officers were chosen: Dr. Park as President and June Frank as Secretary. Dr. Josephson spoke, Paul Bock replying for the initiates.

Although the Society sponsors no activities during the year, to be a member is a very high honor—the recognition of outstanding scholarship during four years of college.

Haberkamp, Miss Heinke, Shinn, Frank, DeWitt, Klenk, M. Winger

The Senior Laureate was founded in 1932 and the elections are based on scholarship, leadership and service with the purpose to promote and coordinate the activities of women. There are plans to replace the Senior Laureate by the Mortar Board Chapter, a national organization that recognizes the same ideals.

The Sunday after Homecoming the group sponsored an Open House in the Commons at which tea was served and skits were given. Later Miss Heinke entertained them with a dinner at the home of Mrs. Fleming. In March they sponsored two censored films to raise money for the scholarship fund to be given to some worthy Sophomore girl. In early spring they held a style show, and later a tea for the freshmen who had obtained high grades.

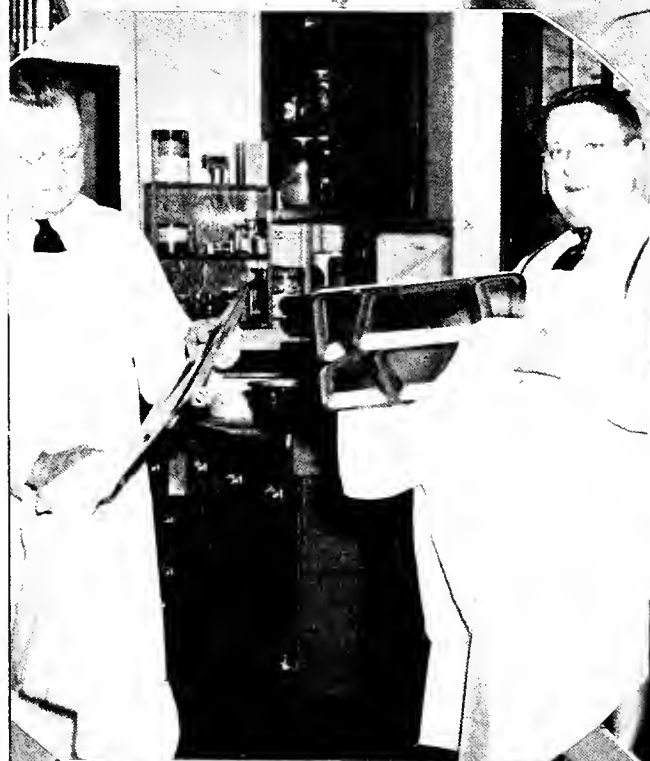

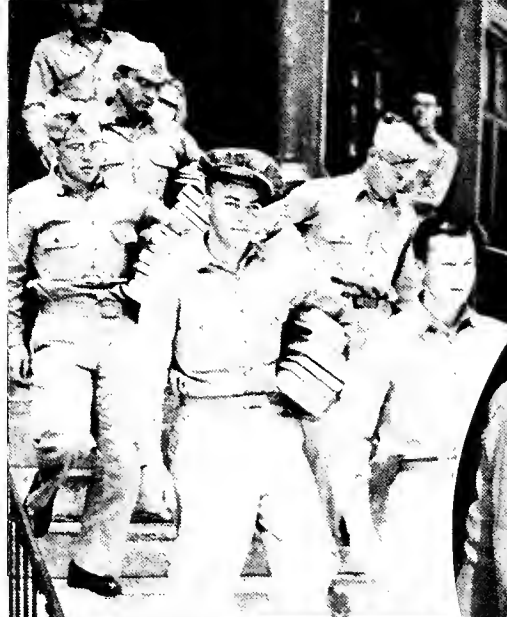

At the Lantern Drill during Graduation Week-End the Sophomore girl was announced and the new members were chosen to carry on the Laureate tradition of Scholarship, Leadership, and Service.

With Bucky Miller as president, activities of the W.A.A. opened with a fall picnic, freshmen as well as upperclass women responding enthusiastically.

The W.A.A. girls enjoyed an evening of fun when they all appeared in queer attire for their Backward Party. A Christmas Party was held at the home of Dr. and Mrs. Kramer. Mrs. Kramer proved to be a very able and attractive athletic instructor until the College secured the new women's gym teacher, Miss Brush.

The dream of a girls' football team became a reality this year as the W.A.A. sponsored a girls' touch-football game on Armstrong Field as the opening event of Homecoming. Columbian High School's girl volley ball team suffered a defeat under the terrific power of our W.A.A. team. The basketball tournaments between the Freshmen and the Societies brought crowds, both service men and civilians, to cheer their favorites onward.

And so the W.A.A. will carry on the athletics of Heidelberg until our boys will be back to do it for us.

Because of the absence of a regular football team or gridiron season this year, the cheerleaders had few of their usual activities to perform. Even so, members of squad did their bit at the traditional Homecoming Game provided by untraditional, but highly appreciated, teams of ASTP men, where their efforts were met with the enthusiastic but confusingly divided "North-South" cheers of both students and soldiers.

No new members were added to the unusually small cheering squad, which was for the first time an entirely feminine one. Led by Head Cheerleader Enid Oldfather, members Betty Hoffman, Ruth Humm and Stacy Symanski once again brought forth their megaphones, coached soldiers and freshmen in cheers, directed activities of the pre-game bonfire cheer rally (bonfire provided by cooperative freshmen), took part in the annual Homecoming parade, and led an excited student body in their cheers at the only football game of the season.

Home Coming

Pomp, gaiety and tradition were all evidenced in this year's annual Homecoming.

The activities started off with a bang, and there was a hot time around the bonfire. There was cheering galore, and our cheerleaders proved that they were still as good as ever.

Next on the program was a touch football game between the upperclass women and the freshman women, presented by the W.A.A. It was a close contest, but the upperclassmen came through to show that the freshmen were still green.

The various societies helped to liven our campus with works of art. The Hesses dreamed up a display which was no night-mare—they called it the "Hesquire." The Freshmen of France Hall are credited with a new idea in displays—a live one.

We must not forget the most important event, however, and that was our football game with our ASTP Unit doing their share.

It was here we caught a glimpse of our three lovelies—June Frank, Queen, and her attendants, Ginny DeWitt and Lenna Haberkamp.

Following the game a rowdy time was enjoyed by all at the Variety Show.

Then came the dance, soft lights, smooth music, romance, and this was the end of another Homecoming.

SWEET ALMA HOME

"Sweet Alma Home!" One can easily wax rashly sentimental when he hears these words. But people who remain coldly dispassionate about things like this are odd in their way, too. Let us go to neither extreme, but rather retain a finer sentiment about Heidelberg College.

When the song begins, we conjure up pictures of Founders; the mail boxes; Commons; the elms; a long lunch line; the Lib; the steady beat of life in the General Office; the student who looks furtively around to see who watches him tread the illegal paths (we have legal lanes); the warm, sweet perfume and fuzzy rustle of long frocks that fill a crowded Commons dance floor; the sudden whirr of "Left" Winger's figure skates, as she executes a dizzy spin on the ice behind the Lib; the moan of an exhausted student staggering blindly from the room in which he has recently been ministered unto with a stiff exam—all this is Sweet Alma Home. Heidelberg has seen almost a century of living, service and fun, for her students.

"Where'er we be, where'er we roam" means that we're more than ready and willing to return to school even when we have just been subjected to a two-weeks' Christmas vacation. It means we get warm and glad when we see the U-Building steeple loom up before us in the twilight as we tramp the last few weary steps up to the dorm.

"On land, or sea, our swift-winged memory in yearnings backward flies to thee!" This—the reason for Homecoming, class reunions, Dad's Day at the gridiron field; the whyfore that servicemen, graduates and ex-students keep in touch with their old College; one of the things a soldier wants to live for during that split second of suspense when he realizes a shell is winging toward him—if he dies, he has had a thought of something fine, if he lives, he is grateful. Sometimes we forget the ex-students who were never privileged to complete their courses here; they look back, mark you, on the years or semester here, reverence them, tell of them to their children, whence cometh the tale, "I want my kids to have a break I never had."

"Let scepters break, and kingdoms fall! Let powers quake, and vanish all!" This means the loss of a hard-fought football game can be taken on the chin; disappointments in finals after you have sweat it out several nights in a row with peanut butter and crackers handy. This means, too, disappointment in the global sphere—come hell or high water in battle, come loss and hardship and stinking shame to nations of the earth, there are finer things in life, nicer things to work towards.

"Yet wilt thou reign secure within our hearts while they endure." We are thankful to the College which gave us the challenge, not to be self-satisfied with life, and smugly go forth to seek for ourselves alone in the wide world where it is so easy to do just that; but within ourselves to be just uneasy enough to help others. This is why the Alma Mater remains within our hearts while we work on, sticking it out by pure courage at times, and again by faith and trust in what the School has given us and taught us.

The chorus of "Sweet Alma Home" is the dedication of this Aurora to the students who went before us, and the stirring challenge we leave for those who come after us. When returning echoes bring back the lay years hence, let it be a song the young ones will be unashamed to sing loudly; that they may say, "See what they did; it is good, but let us do better, for that is what they would have wished for us."
